Drivalia, the rental and mobility company of CA Auto Bank, announces three new top-level appointments at its European Headquarters, all led by Roberto Sportiello, CEO of Drivalia: Pasquale Piccolino, Cyril Châtelet, and Gwénaël Cevaër assume new strategic roles with the objective of consolidating the managerial structure, optimizing operational processes, and accelerating the company's strategic development across the 16 markets where it operates.

Pasquale Piccolino has been entrusted with the leadership of two departments: Fleet Procurement & Supply Chain, aiming to optimize the fleet and the entire supply process of goods and services in close synergy with partners, carmakers (OEMs), and suppliers; and Network Development & Electrification, responsible for managing the Drivalia Mobility Stores (DMS) and electrification development in Europe, implementing network activities for short-term rental. For the former role, Piccolino succeeds José Carreira, who will take on a new role within the CA Personal Finance & Mobility Group (parent company of CA Auto Bank and Drivalia); both will work closely together until the end of the year to ensure a smooth handover.

Piccolino boasts a solid career in the mobility sector. In 2000, he joined SAVA, holding the roles of Area Manager and Region Manager. He subsequently moved to Leasys, where he became Head of Remarketing in 2019, before serving as Country Manager for the Belgian subsidiary (2020) and later the German one (2022). In 2023, he joined Drivalia, taking charge of Fleet Procurement & Supply Chain and subsequently of Drivalia France, until his appointment in 2025 as Country Manager of Drivalia Italy.

Cyril Châtelet, former Head of Sales at HQ, has been appointed to lead the new Sales & Marketing department, created by merging the two previously separate areas. In addition to defining and implementing Drivalia's overall commercial strategy, Cyril Châtelet will drive the growth of full-service leasing and short term rental activities across the Group's 16 markets, ensuring a clear and consistent service proposition for customers.

With over 25 years of automotive experience, Cyril Châtelet has held senior positions at leading international brands.
